Fad for Furs and Feathers

All sorts of furs and all sorts of to the shape of the head. At the left feathers are to be found in neckwear and millinery for the coming winter. Fur as a trimming for fabrics and in neckwear, and fur sets, appears to be better liked than in all-fur garments. Matched sets of three pieces, showing muff, neckplece and hat trimming of the same fur, or all of them made up of some fur-trimmed fabric, are among the most elegant and practical offerings of the new season.

The neckpiece and fur-trimmed turban at the right of the picture given here recommend themselves to maid and matron alike. As shown, the high pompon and soft collar are made of white angora, but the same idea is carried out in other furs such as martin and fox, or any of the longhaired skins.

The turban has a high crown covered with white satin and a smartly rolling brim of black velvet. The big sashed overdresses of checked, striped fur pompon is its only trimming.

At the left a toque shape entirely apron of milady's maid appears on covered with backle feathers in black afternoon and dance frocks. The finest and Belgian blue is made to conform of laces are used for the latter.

ESCAPES DEATH IN THRILLING MANNER

Girl Has Crushed Shoe as Memento of Exhibition of Presence of Mind.

Chicago.-Miss Edith Simmons has a little shoe, crushed into a shapeless mass of leather, that she can, if asked. exhibit as a memento of her one parrow escape from death and her greatest exhibition of presence of mind. She intends to keep the shoe all of her life, and if ever she is in danger of losing courage she will think of the shoe and is certain she will get out of any tight place all right.

The shoe met the fate that would have been Miss Simmons' had it not been for her quick thinking. It was crushed by a flying passenger train near Waukegan.

Miss Simmons, who is only sixteen years old, told at her home of how

"I Was Frightened to Death." she escaped the grinding wheels. The story was punctuated with shudders of horror. "I was visiting some friends in Waukekan and we decided to have a picnic in the country," she said. "After the picnic lunch I got lost from the rest of the crowd, and in searching for them tried to cross the railroad tracks.

"In some way my heel caught between the main rail and a guard rail. I had high shoes on and could not slip my foot out, so I tried for five minutes to work it loose, but I couldn't.

"Then I heard a train whistle, I looked up and only half a mile away I saw a train rushing toward me. For a second I didn't know what to do. I thought I would surely be killed. Then I forced myself to be calm, and the thought came to me, 'Unlace that shoe as quickly as you can."

"I was frightened to death that in my haste I would get a knot in the strings, but I didn't. It didn't seem more than five seconds before I had the shoe off and had jumped over to one side of the tracks. Then the train roared by and made leather mincemeat out of the poor little shoe, just as it would have out of me. "I'll bet that engineer never knew how near he came to running me down.

OH, THE CRUEL, CRUEL MAN

Buys Wife First Shoes in Three Years and Then He Burns Them.

Chicago.-Slowly she approached Judge La Buy's bench and gently she laid them down.

"Cremated," she moaned, as the tears coursed down her cheeks. "He did it. He burned them. I tried to save them, but as you see they are cremated." "He," was her husband, Samuel Heap. She was Mrs. Heap of 450 North Carpenter street. The odor of burnt leather reached the judge's nose. Two pairs of charred shoes lay on his bench "They were the first shoes he bought me in three years," wept Mrs. Heap. "and then he came home in a surly mood and threw them in the stove," "She told me to," interposed Heap.

"If she told you to jump in the lake would you do it?" asked the court. "Not for her, I wouldn't. I'm through with her forever and ever. I'm going to get a divorce.'

"But first of all you are going to the bridewell to work out a fine of $25 and costs," said Judge La Buy, "Thank you," replied Heap as if he meant it.
